PART I

Item 1. Business.

Capital Cities/ABC, Inc. and/or its subsidiaries (the "Company") operate the ABC Television Network, eight television stations, the ABC Radio Networks and 21 radio stations, and provide programming for cable television. The Company publishes newspapers, shopping guides, various specialized and business periodicals, books and records, provides research services and also distributes information from data bases.

Employees

At December 31, 1990, the Company had approximately 20,100 full-time employees: 10,250 in broadcasting operations, 9,300 in publishing operations and 250 in corporate activities.

Industry Segments

Information relating to the industry segments of the Company's operations is included on page 35 of the Company's Annual Report to Shareholders and is hereby incorporated by reference. In 1990, the Company derived substantially all broadcasting revenues and approximately 66% of its publishing revenues from the sale of advertising. Virtually all of the balance of publishing revenues was derived from subscription and other circulation receipts and the sale of books and records.

Broadcasting

Television and Radio Networks

The Company operates the ABC Television Network which as of December 31, 1990, had 227 primary affiliated stations reaching 99.9% of all U.S. television households. A number of secondary affiliated stations add to the primary coverage. The ABC Television Network has a program schedule consisting of Monday through Friday Early Morning, Daytime and Late Night, Monday through Sunday Prime Time and News, as well as Children's programs and Sports, which are largely weekend. The Company also operates the ABC Radio Networks which served a total of approximately 3,050 affiliates as of December 31, 1990 through seven different program services, each with its own group of affiliated stations. The ABC Radio Networks also produce and distribute a number of radio program series for radio stations nationwide.

Generally, the Company pays the cost of producing or purchasing the broadcast rights for its network programming and pays varying amounts of compensation to its affiliated stations for broadcasting the programs and commercial announcements included therein. Substantially all revenues from network operations are derived from the sale to advertisers of time in network programs for commercial announcements. The ability to sell time for commercial announcements and the rates received are dependent on the quantitative and qualitative audience that the network can deliver to the advertiser.

Television and Radio Stations

The Company owns seven very high frequency (VHF) television stations, one ultra high frequency (UHF) television station, eleven standard (AM) radio stations and ten frequency modulation (FM) radio stations. All television stations are affiliated with the ABC Television Network and all radio stations, except as noted, are affiliated with the ABC Radio Networks. Markets, frequencies and other station details are set forth in the following tables:

Video Enterprises

The Company's Video Enterprises operations are largely involved in the production and supply of cable television programming, in the licensing of programming to domestic and international home video markets and television stations abroad and investment in foreign-based television and theatrical film production/distribution entities. Its primary services and household reach are:

ESPN, a cable sports programming service reaching 57,300,000 households, which is 80%-owned;

The Arts & Entertainment Network, a cable programming service devoted to cultural and entertainment programming reaching 48,400,000 households, which is 38%-owned;

Lifetime, a cable programming service devoted to women's lifestyle and health programming with special material for health care professionals reaching 51,200,000 households, which is 33 1/3%-owned;

Tele-Munchen GmbH, a Munich, Germany based television and theatrical production/distribution company with interests in cinemas and minority interests in a Munich radio station and a German cable/television program service, which is 50%-owned; and Hamster Productions, S.A. and Tesauo, S.A., respectively, a Paris, France and a Madrid, Spain based television and theatrical production/distribution company, each of which is 25%-owned.

Competition

The ABC Television Network competes for viewers with the other television networks, independent television stations and other video media such as cable television, multipoint distribution services, satellite television program services and video cassettes; in the sale of advertising time, it competes with the other television networks, independent television stations, suppliers of cable television programs, and other advertising media such as newspapers, magazines and billboards. Substantial competition also exists for exclusive broadcasting rights for television programming. The ABC Radio Networks likewise compete with other radio networks and radio programming services, independent radio stations, and other advertising media.

The Company's television and radio stations are in competition with other television and radio stations, cable television systems, multipoint distribution services and other advertising media such as newspapers, magazines and billboards. Such competition occurs primarily in individual market areas. Generally, a television station in one market does not compete directly with other stations in other market areas. Nor does a group of stations, such as those owned by the Company, compete with any other group of stations as such. While the pattern of competition in the radio station industry is basically the same, it is not uncommon for radio stations outside of a market area to place a signal of sufficient strength within that area (particularly during nighttime hours) to gain a share of the audience. However, they generally do not gain a significant share of the advertising marketplace.

In addition to management and experience, factors which are material to competitive position include authorized power allowance, assigned frequency, network affiliation, and local program acceptance, as well as strength of local competition.

The most common sources of television service other than conventional television stations are cable television systems. Cable television can provide more competition for a station by making additional signals available to its audience. In addition, most cable television systems supply programming that is not available on conventional television stations. These include a wide range of advertiser-supported and subscription-supported video programming services. Subscription-supported video programming services are also provided by multipoint distribution services ("MDS") which employ non-broadcast frequencies to transmit subscription television services to individual homes and businesses. Additional services are being provided by low power television stations and by direct satellite-to-home transmissions. Finally, the increased in-home use of video cassette recorders and players provides what is, in effect, an alternative television service.

The Company's video enterprises operations compete with a number of companies involved in developing and supplying program services for cable, distribution of video cassettes, television syndication and theatrical distribution, and with conventional television broadcasters. The development of these businesses could adversely affect the future of conventional television broadcasting.

Technological developments have created the possibility that one or more of the television services with which the ABC Television Network and the Company's stations compete will provide enhanced or "high definition" pictures and sound of a quality that is technically superior to that which is currently available to consumers. It is not yet clear when and to what extent technology of this kind will be available in the various television services, whether and how television stations will be able to avail themselves of these improvements, or whether the viewing public will make choices among services on the basis of such differences. The Company and many other segments of the television industry are intensively studying enhanced and high definition television technology, and both the Congress and the Federal Communications Commission (the "FCC") have initiated proceedings and studies of its potential and application to television service in the United States.

There is also a new radio technology known as "digital audio" which could result in additional competition to the Company's radio stations and radio networks. Digital audio is capable of providing "compact disk" quality, a quality much higher than can now be provided by existing AM and FM broadcasting services. It is not yet clear when and to what extent existing radio stations and networks will be able to avail themselves of this new technology and whether the listening public will make choices among services on the basis of the difference in audio quality. The Company and many other aspects of the radio industry are intensively studying this new technology, and the FCC has initiated a proceeding to seek information to assist it in developing technical standards and regulatory policies for the possible introduction of such new digital audio radio services.

Licenses—Federal Regulation of Broadcasting

Television and radio broadcasting are subject to the jurisdiction of the FCC under the Communications Act of 1934, as amended (the "Communications Act"). The Communications Act empowers the FCC, among other things, to issue, revoke or modify broadcasting licenses, determine the location of stations, regulate the equipment used by stations, adopt such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of the Communications Act and impose certain penalties for violation of its regulations.

Renewal Matters

Broadcasting licenses are granted for a maximum period of seven years, in the case of radio stations, and five years, in the case of television stations, and are renewable upon application therefor. During certain periods when a renewal application is pending, other applicants may file for the frequency and may be entitled to compete with the renewal applicant in a comparative hearing, and others may file petitions to deny the application for renewal of license. Renewal applications are now pending for KABC(AM), KLOS-FM, KQRS-FM, WPRO(AM) and WPRO-FM. For KABC(AM), KLOS-FM, WPRO(AM) AND WPRO-FM, the time to file competing applications and petitions to deny has passed, and no such filings have been made against these stations. All of the Company's other owned stations have been granted license renewals by the FCC for regular terms except for KQRS-FM. Action on previous KQRS-FM renewal applications has been delayed pending the outcome of a long-standing dispute involving the technical facilities of several of the FM stations in the KQRS-FM market. The dispute among the parties has now been resolved, and the FCC is expected to act on this matter following completion of construction of the station's new antenna facility and the filing of a covering license application. With regard to WPVI-TV, a petition to deny was filed in 1989 against all commercial television stations in Philadelphia (including WPVI-TV) alleging that they had failed to broadcast adequate programming about issues of concern to women and certain minority groups. The FCC rejected the petition and granted the license, but the petitioners have sought reconsideration from the FCC.

Ownership Matters

The Communications Act prohibits the assignment of a license or the transfer of control of a licensee without prior approval of the FCC, and prohibits the Company from having any officer or director who is an alien, and from having more than one-fifth of its stock owned by aliens or representatives of aliens or foreign governments.

The FCC's "multiple ownership" rules provide that a license for a television station will not be granted if the applicant owns, or has a significant interest in, another television station which provides service to areas already served by the station operated or controlled by the applicant or if granting the license would result in a concentration of control of broadcasting. A more narrowly-defined restriction applies to common ownership of two or more radio stations of the same type (AM or FM) in the same area. Those rules also preclude the grant of applications for station acquisitions which would result in the creation of new radio-television combinations in the same market under common ownership, or the sale of such a combination to a single party, subject to the availability of waiver. Under FCC policy, waiver applications that involve radio-television station combinations in the top 25 TV markets where there would be at least 30 separately owned, operated and controlled broadcast licensees after the proposed combination will generally be favorably received. Under present FCC rules, a single entity may directly or indirectly own, operate or have a significant interest in up to twelve AM and twelve FM radio stations, and up to twelve television stations (VHF or UHF), provided that those television stations operate in markets containing cumulatively no more than 25% of the television households in the country. For this purpose, ownership of a UHF station will result in the attribution of only 50% of the television households in the relevant market. The Company owns eight television stations, of which seven are VHF, resulting in a total penetration of the nation's television households, for purposes of the multiple ownership rules, of 24.34%. The Company also owns eleven AM and ten FM radio stations.

Furthermore, under the FCC's rules, radio and/or television licensees may not acquire new ownership interests in daily newspapers published in the same markets served by their broadcast stations; television licensees may not own cable television systems in communities within the service contours of their television stations; and a television network owner may not own a cable system. The Company presently owns daily newspapers in two markets in which it also holds radio licenses. For purposes of these rules, The Oakland Press and WJR(AM) and WHYT-FM, licensed to Detroit, are treated as in the same market, as are the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and WBAP(AM) and KSCS-FM, licensed to Fort Worth. Although these holdings are "grandfathered," under the rules these commonly owned broadcast/newspaper combinations could not be transferred together.

The FCC's rules generally provide that an entity will have the licensee's broadcast stations or newspapers attributed to it for purposes of the multiple ownership rules only if it holds the power to vote or control the vote of 5% or more of the stock of a licensee. Qualifying mutual funds, insurance companies, or bank trust departments may vote or control the vote of up to 10% of the stock of a broadcast licensee before the licensee's stations would be attributed to that entity.

Network Regulations

The Company's television network operations are subject to a consent decree (United States v. American Broadcasting Companies, Inc., 74-3600-RJK), in the United States District Court for the Central District of California, entered into and effective on November 14, 1980. The consent decree contains provisions which prohibit the acquisition of subsidiary rights and interests in television programs produced by independent suppliers and forbid the Company from engaging in the business of domestic syndication. These injunctive provisions of the consent judgment continue in perpetuity. In addition, the consent judgment contains provisions regulating for a period expiring in 1995 certain aspects of the Company's contractual relationships with suppliers of entertainment programming and with talent performers and other creative contributors to ABC Television Network entertainment programming. Similar judgments have been entered against CBS Inc. and the National Broadcasting Company, Inc. with respect to their television networks.

ABC, CBS and NBC are also currently subject to FCC rules which restrict their ability to acquire financial interests in television programs or engage in program syndication. The FCC is currently engaged in a rulemaking proceeding examining whether to repeal, retain or modify these rules. The network operated by Fox Broadcasting Company, which would otherwise be subject to these rules based on its provision of 15 hours or more of programming to its affiliates, has been granted a waiver from these rules until the earlier of May 8, 1991 or the conclusion of the proceeding. In addition, other FCC rules essentially restrict the regular prime-time programming schedules of ABC, CBS and NBC to three hours per night during the period 7:00 P.M. to 11:00 P.M. Fox has also been granted temporary relief from this restriction. The Company is supporting repeal of the financial interest and syndication rules and opposing any preferential treatment for Fox. The Company is not able to predict the outcome of these proceedings.

Radio Proceedings

In an action designed to increase the number of aural outlets, the FCC has initiated proceedings to expand the AM band to include new frequencies. This action would require, among other matters, some modifications of international treaties governing use of the radio spectrum. The FCC has also initiated proceedings that include a number of possible changes in the criteria used for making assignments in the AM band, one result of which has been proposals to facilitate interference reduction among stations. The Company is not able to predict the outcome or impact of these proceedings.

Cable Television and Other Competing Services

As previously noted (see "Competition" above), cable television can provide more competition to a television station by making additional signals available to the audience. In 1987, for the second time, the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit ruled unconstitutional FCC rules which required cable television systems generally to carry the signals of television stations in whose service areas they operate. The ruling became final in 1988 when the Supreme Court declined to hear the case. In 1991, legislation was proposed which would reinstitute the rules in some form and which would also reimpose cable system rate regulation. The proposed legislation also proposes to introduce other measures to facilitate competition with cable systems from MDS and other multi-channel video providers. In addition, the FCC has determined that rate regulation should be reimposed where cable systems are not subject to "effective competition" and has issued a Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking seeking comment on the proper standards for "effective competition" and rate regulation. The Company is not able to predict the outcome of this proposed legislation and these proceedings, which could have an impact on its broadcast stations as well as its cable services. Currently, cable television systems may decline to carry the signals of television stations in their service areas, including the signals of television stations owned by the Company or affiliated with its television network.

Most cable television systems supply additional programming to subscribers that is not originated on, or transmitted from, conventional television broadcasting stations. Many of these services (including ESPN, Arts & Entertainment and Lifetime) are also being distributed directly to viewers by means of satellite transmissions to home satellite reception dishes.

The FCC also authorizes broadcast subscription television services and MDS, and has expanded the number of frequencies available for MDS by allocating two groups of four channels each for the so-called multi-channel MDS, to be awarded by lottery. The FCC has authorized licensees in the Instructional Television Fixed Service to lease their excess capacity for commercial use, including subscription television service and has adopted rules facilitating direct broadcast satellite operations. It has also created a new service of low power television facilities to supplement existing conventional television broadcast service. The Company cannot predict the competitive effect of these services.

From time to time legislation may be introduced in Congress which, if enacted, might affect the Company's operations or its advertising revenues. Proceedings, investigations, hearings and studies are periodically conducted by Congressional committees and by the FCC and other government agencies with respect to problems and practices of, and conditions in, the broadcasting industry. The Company cannot generally predict whether new legislation or regulations may result from any such studies or hearings or the adverse impact, if any, upon the Company's operations which might result therefrom.

The information contained under this heading does not purport to be a complete summary of all the provisions of the Communications Act and the rules and regulations of the FCC thereunder, or of pending proposals for other regulation of broadcasting and related activities. For a complete statement of such provisions, reference is made to the Communications Act, and to such rules, regulations and pending proposals thereunder.

Competition

The Company's specialized publications operate in a highly competitive environment. In the Company's various news publishing activities, it competes with almost all other information media, including broadcast media, and this competition may become more intense as communications equipment is improved and new technologies are developed. Many metropolitan general newspapers and small-city or suburban papers carry business news. In addition to special magazines in the fields covered by the Company's specialized publications, competing general interest and consumer magazines and general news magazines publish substantial amounts of similar business material and deal with the same or related special interests or industries as those covered by the Company's publications. Nearly all of these publications seek to sell advertising space, and much of this effort is directly or indirectly competitive with the Company's specialized publications.

The Company's newspapers and shopping guides compete with other advertising media such as broadcasting stations, suburban and metropolitan newspapers, magazines and billboards. The Company's book publishing operations compete with other companies whose books deal with the same or related fields as those covered by the Company's titles. In most cases, there is also competition for acquisition of new book titles. In the religious and inspirational recording field, there is competition with others, not only to obtain the creative talent and music essential to the business, but also in the sale and distribution of the product.

Income Per Share Before Extraordinary Items

To Our Shareholders

Although earnings per share increased a modest 2 percent to a record level of $27.71, 1990 was a difficult and somewhat disappointing year for Capital Cities/ABC. The small gain did not meet our expectations for the year and reflects the pressures that Capital Cities/ABC and other media companies have confronted since late summer: a deteriorating national economy, difficult competitive circumstances and the high cost of covering the conflict in the Persian Gulf.

Operating income was essentially unchanged from 1989, while net income declined by $7,947,000 to $477,780,000. An aggressive stock repurchase program had the effect of increasing net interest costs while at the same time reducing the number of average shares outstanding, which explains the modest gain in earnings per share while net income declined. Net revenues grew 9 percent in 1990 compared with 1989, with much of the gain coming in the first eight months of the year. In addition, a large revenue increase in the fall of the year was required to support a substantial increase in fees payable to the National Football League by the ABC Television Network and ESPN.

A summary of the Company's results for 1990 compared with 1989 follows:

(Dollars in millions)	1990	1989	Percent change

Two noncash items related to the January 3, 1986 ABC acquisition affected reported results for 1990 and 1989. At the time of the acquisition, the Company was required to reduce entertainment and sports programming rights from their historic costs to their fair market values, which benefited earnings in 1990 and 1989 by $0.30 and $3.10 per share, respectively. From 1991 forward, the Company's earnings will be relatively unaffected by purchase price adjustments of this nature. Amortization of intangible assets relating to the ABC acquisition amounted to $3.01 and $2.91 per share in 1990 and 1989, respectively. Excluding these two noncash acquisition-related items, earnings per share increased 12 percent, from $27.06 in 1989 to $30.42 in 1990.

The sudden and strong impact that the deepening recession and the Persian Gulf conflict had on results in late 1990 has continued to weaken sales and operating profits to date in 1991. Since we do not yet see any signs of an economic turnaround, it is reassuring to reflect on the underlying financial soundness of the Company. Our balance sheet is strong, and our operating facilities are in excellent condition. These factors will enable us to apply our available cash flow to internal or external growth possibilities as they develop.

The Company's major application of cash in 1990 was for the repurchase of its common stock in the open market. The repurchases for the year totalled 926,000 shares at a cost of $442,000,000. The shares were repurchased at an average price of $477 per share, or 7.6 times operating cash flow (operating income before depreciation and amortization). Acquisition of appropriate, sizable, advertiser-supported media properties is not currently possible at comparable multiples. The stock repurchase program has reduced the number of shares outstanding from 17,534,000 at the end of 1989 to 16,759,000 at the end of 1990. The Company plans to selectively continue the repurchase program in 1991.

On January 3, 1991, Capital Cities/ABC made its first principal payment of approximately \$94,000,000 on ABC acquisition-related debt. Similar principal payments are due in each of the next three years. Although this \$94,000,000 payment represented 20 percent of 1990 net income and did not create pressure on the balance sheet, the Company took advantage of its fine credit standing and favorable market conditions and late in the year sold \$250,000,000 of 8 $\frac{1}{4}$ % notes due on December 15, 2000. Following the payment on January 3, 1991, the Company held \$1,265,000,000 in cash and short-term United States Government securities and had \$312,500,000 of debt payable in five years or less and \$1,541,000,000 of debt with maturities of five to 26 years.

Acquisitions for cash have historically been very important in the development and growth of Capital Cities/ABC. While the Company did spend $61,983,000 to acquire a number of small properties during 1990, we have only recently felt that our balance sheet and the task of combining Capital Cities and ABC were sufficiently advanced to permit the organization to seriously consider another major acquisition. Equity values have declined and although nothing has yet seemed appropriate, we will keep looking. We intend to confine the search to businesses similar to the ones with which our organization has achieved favorable results and to maintain discipline as to price and downside risk.

Broadcasting and publishing activities of the Company will be reviewed in detail in other sections of this annual report. Highlights for 1990 follow.

The ABC Television Network Group achieved higher operating earnings on an 8 percent revenue gain in 1990. The improvement in earnings was due to strong advertiser demand in the first eight months of the year and higher shares of the audience groups which are most attractive. Significant share growth, especially in the key audience demographics, was achieved in early morning, in most news segments and in prime time. Advertiser commitments made back in June for the 1990-1991 season were quite favorable, but Iraq's invasion of Kuwait on August 2, 1990, and the steadily declining overall economy thereafter materially eroded the demand for television network advertising. Network sales and operating earnings for the fourth quarter in 1990 declined from previous year levels.

During the 1989-1990 prime-time season, the ABC Television Network delivered a larger 18-49 year-old-audience than either CBS or NBC in more than half of the 22-hour prime-time schedule. Good Morning America was the top-rated early morning program for the year, delivering virtually as many young adult women as CBS and NBC combined. ABC's NFL Monday Night Football was the number one rated prime-time series for young adult men. In January 1991, ABC Sports presented an acclaimed broadcast of Super Bowl XXV, the closest championship game ever played. It was watched by 112,000,000 viewers in the United States.

ABC News emerged from an extraordinary news year in 1989 as the acknowledged industry leader and built on this position in 1990. The professionalism and depth of ABC News was particularly evident as events unfolded in eastern Europe and in the Persian Gulf region. World News Tonight with Peter Jennings was the most-watched evening news broadcast during the year and increased its audience share as the Gulf crisis intensified. Nightline, 20/20, PrimeTime Live and ABC World News This Morning all strengthened their audience shares based on delivery of comprehensive and balanced reporting and analysis of key domestic and international events.

The three major television networks continue to face several unfavorable trends. Although the percentage of United States homes subscribing to cable is leveling off, the viewing of non-network alternatives, primarily basic cable networks, continued to grow. During 1990, viewing of the ABC, CBS and NBC networks fell from 64 percent to 61 percent in prime time. While these viewing shifts create new options for network advertisers, the traditional networks still represent the greatest efficiency in terms of development and distribution of first-class entertainment and information programming to the American public. As long as this remains true, marketers will use the networks to introduce new products and to promote existing brands.

Earnings for the Broadcast Group rose slightly in 1990. All eight of the Company's television stations were once again ranked or tied for first in their individual markets. Generally, local television advertising demand was weak, and national advertisements purchased market-by-market diminished in the second half of the year as network sales declined. Results were generally more satisfactory for the three California stations, with revenue and earnings growth outpacing the other five locations.

Our 21 radio stations had both gains and losses in terms of audience delivery but overall had a satisfactory year in terms of franchise. Total revenues were virtually flat with 1989, and profits declined slightly. The ABC Radio Network's earnings improved modestly.

Video Enterprises' profits declined in 1990, but the division's cable programming networks, its growing involvement in foreign co-ventures and its international licensing activities still represent strong growth potential. ESPN incurred a $35,000,000 operating loss in its first-year coverage of its new four-year contract with Major League Baseball. As a result, ESPN's overall earnings declined for the first time in five years. The renewal of its contract with the National Football League was also expensive, but marginal profitability was maintained due to increased support from cable system operators. The Arts & Entertainment and Lifetime cable networks continued to improve in every way: subscriber count, audience delivery and revenue and earnings growth.

The Publishing Group reported slightly improved earnings on a 4 percent revenue gain in 1990. Gains in Kansas City and Fort Worth enabled the daily newspaper group to report higher profits in 1990. Results at the Kansas City Star included expenses associated with discontinuation of its afternoon edition. Extremely soft marketplace conditions at the specialized publications, together with the costs of a significant reorganization, resulted in lower earnings for that group.

Our broadcasting and publishing properties have always been actively involved in community affairs. Collectively they participate in the Partnership For a Drug-Free America campaign, which may well be contributing to the decline of substance abuse in this country. Our operations contributed commercial time and advertising space worth over $40,000,000 in 1990 and $125,000,000 over the past four years. Another corporate effort, PLUS (Project Literacy U.S.), made further progress in the fight against inadequate reading and writing skills in the nation's workforce. A highlight in 1990 included the "National Literacy Honors," a television network special broadcast in March from the White House, hosted by President and Mrs. Bush. In May, PLUS launched its "Workforce Literacy" campaign in cooperation with a host of national organizations, including the Departments of Labor and Education.

Capital Cities/ABC has made a strong commitment to a policy of equal employment and advancement opportunities for all qualified individuals. In 1990, 21 percent of the Company's overall work force was minority, and 45 percent was female. We continue to recognize the ongoing need to increase the representation of both minorities and females throughout all parts of the Company.

By any objective standard, we feel that the combination of Capital Cities and ABC has been successful. The resulting company is a strong one, and its numerous broadcast and print activities enjoy strong audience and advertiser support. The attractiveness of most of the business sectors in which the Company competes has, however, brought strong and determined competitors. While we are confident that our strong financial condition and outstanding organization should enable the Company to extend its fine record, we recognize that many of our largest and most profitable operations can be regarded as mature.

As it enters its 37th year, the challenge for Capital Cities/ABC is to use its obvious strengths to build a future of continuing growth and promise. In the Broadcast Group section of this report, you will find reference to several minority investments the Company has made in western Europe. These are small beginnings with excellent partners, and we believe they will position us well as European countries continue to permit more development of commercial television. We also intend to invest in the introduction of new products such as Episodes, a magazine for viewers of ABC daytime serial dramas that was launched in 1990, and the exciting new European edition of W that was introduced in German, French, Italian and English editions in early 1991. During 1990, the Company funded pre-tax losses in excess of $37,000,000 for these and other such projects. If just a reasonable percentage of these projects are successful, they will make significant contributions in future years.

During early 1991, the FCC is expected to act on regulations which have limited the degree to which the major television networks can invest in, produce and benefit from the syndication of entertainment programming. It is hoped that the regulations will be relaxed, if not repealed. In anticipation of coming changes, ABC Productions was formed in 1989 under the leadership of Brandon Stoddard. In little over a year, ABC Productions has made great progress toward the goal of developing successful series and special programming which our Company can own or co-own with others and can broadcast over ABC facilities or license to others.

While short-term prospects for outperforming the general economy are not promising, we remain optimistic about the longer term. We have the resources, the organization and the determination necessary to build on the Company's thirty-six years of solid growth.

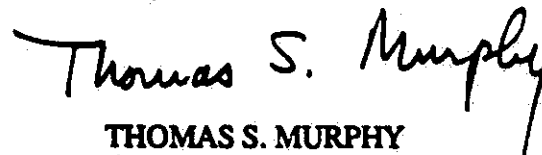

We note with regret the death of Joseph P. Dougherty in 1990. Joe was a former President of the Company's Broadcasting Division and a Director until his retirement in 1989. His many contributions helped mold the Company into its present form. Also in 1990, George P. Jenkins retired from the Board and sadly, Thomas A. Macioce passed away. Both of these Directors gave many years of outstanding and dedicated service to the Board of Capital Cities/ABC and prior to the merger, to the Board of American Broadcasting Companies, Inc.

We are pleased to report that Wyndham Robertson, Vice President, Communications at the University of North Carolina, was elected to our Board of Directors.

As always, we appreciate the interest and support of our stockholders. We also wish to thank the thousands of fellow employees whose dedication and outstanding efforts will keep Capital Cities/ABC moving forward in the months and years ahead.

Broadcasting

The Company's broadcasting operations, which consist of the ABC Television Network Group and the Broadcast Group, had 1990 net revenues of $4,283,600,000, an increase of 10 percent, or $383,600,000, over 1989. Operating earnings of $830,500,000 in 1990 decreased $5,600,000 from the prior year. Broadcasting's 1990 and 1989 results are summarized as follows:

(Dollars in millions)	1990	1989
Net revenues	$4,283.6	$3,900.0
Operating costs	3,331.3	2,943.3
Depreciation and amortization	121.8	120.6
Total costs	3,453.1	3,063.9
Operating income	$ 830.5	$ 836.1

Acquisition-related adjustments from historic costs to fair market value for entertainment programming and sports rights of the ABC Television Network benefited 1990 and 1989 earnings by $8,500,000 and $92,000,000, respectively. In addition, both 1990 and 1989 results include amortization of intangibles (principally arising from the ABC acquisition) of $45,800,000 and $46,200,000, respectively. Excluding these two noncash acquisition-related factors, total broadcasting earnings would have been $868,800,000 in 1990, a 10 percent increase from $790,300,000 in 1989.

ABC Television Network Group

ABC Television Network Group revenues and profits improved significantly in 1990, but this growth was achieved only during the first eight months of the year. By the fourth quarter, the network's operating environment had deteriorated quite dramatically. The recessionary economy and the conflict in the Persian Gulf significantly dampened national advertiser demand and weakened network pricing. As a result, network revenues and profits eroded in the fourth quarter and will likely be further suppressed in 1991.

Revenues increased approximately 8 percent in 1990 to $2,600,000,000, due to healthy advertiser demand earlier in the year and strong pricing gains during the 1990-1991 upfront selling season. Operating expenses (excluding purchase price adjustments) increased 5 percent for the year, reflecting higher than anticipated costs for licensed entertainment, sports programming and news-gathering costs. The network's 1990 operating profits exceeded $230,000,000 compared to approximately $160,000,000 in 1989, excluding purchase price adjustments and goodwill amortization in both years.

As gratifying as 1990 results were, a weak national economy, improved audience delivery by competitive media and the costs of news coverage in the Middle East will make near-term growth quite difficult. Even with a strong scatter market for the first three quarters of 1990 and a record upfront 1990-1991 selling season, the combined three-network marketplace increased only 3 percent in 1990. Fourth quarter industry revenues actually declined by almost 3 percent. Scatter pricing dropped well below upfront levels by the end of the year and weakened further in the first quarter of 1991 with the start of the armed conflict in the Persian Gulf.

Audience gains at other broadcast and cable media in recent years make it increasingly difficult for the three major networks to attract additional viewers. The basic cable networks, for example, improved their aggregate national ratings by approximately 20 percent in the fourth quarter of 1990, helped by a full schedule of NFL football games. Combined three-network ratings declined by 6 percent over the same period. For full year 1990, the three-network prime-time audience share dropped to 61 percent from 64 percent in 1989. ABC's growth in this tough competitive environment was due to its demographic leadership in young adult viewers throughout most of the broadcast day.

During the course of a week in prime time, more than 137,000,000 viewers tune to the ABC Television Network. ABC finished the 1989-1990 season in its best competitive position relative to the two other major networks since the date of the merger. Among young adult women, ABC was the only network to show increases compared with the prior season. In prime time, ABC reduced NBC's lead by almost two-thirds in its delivery of women 18-49. For the first time since the 1983-1984 season, ABC finished the year as the top-rated network in the delivery of men 18-49. The improved delivery was most notable on Friday and Sunday nights, although ABC also performed well on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

On Tuesday night, Who's The Boss?, Roseanne and Coach were among the top-rated programs for young adult women and helped the network win the night in that key demographic. Also, thirtysomething's loyal viewers continued to generate strong advertiser appeal. Two programs on Wednesday night, Wonder Years and Doogie Howser, M.D., also ranked among the most popular situation comedies of the season. Friday night's comedy lineup, especially Full House and Family Matters from 8:00 to 9:00 pm, was one of the most-improved time periods on the schedule. After steady gains during the season and through the fall of 1990, both of these programs now rank among the top 15 most-watched programs and often place in the top ten. As a result, ABC won Friday night virtually every week. On Sunday night, America's Funniest Home Videos, introduced in the spring of 1990, was also among the top-ten rated shows.

The Monday-Friday daytime time period has suffered serious audience erosion over the past few seasons. While still a significantly profitable daypart, programming costs have risen faster than revenue growth in recent years, and its profit contribution has declined significantly from historical levels. How the network might better compete in this programming area is currently under extensive review. Nonetheless, ABC remained the most popular network for young adult women in 1990, as it has been for fourteen years primarily because of the popular appeal of its afternoon serial dramas. General Hospital and All My Children finished 1990 as two of the most highly-rated daytime programs. In weekend children's programming, ABC was the top rated network among children 2-11.

Good Morning America dominated the early morning time period during 1990, finishing first in household ratings every week of the year. GMA has developed a clear superiority in the delivery of women 18-49. The program's coverage of the Persian Gulf conflict attracted additional viewers during the fourth quarter of 1990 and first quarter of 1991. Profits for 1990 improved to record levels.

ABC News brought another extraordinary news year into focus with its innovative and comprehensive coverage. More viewers turned to ABC than any other source for its regularly scheduled news broadcasts and its special event coverage. World News Tonight with Peter Jennings was the top-rated evening newscast for the second consecutive year and the only early evening news program to improve its audience delivery in 1990. The American Agenda, a cornerstone of the program, again won several awards for its in-depth reporting on key domestic issues. On Friday night, 20/20 with Hugh Downs and Barbara Walters achieved solid ratings with its extensive investigative reports and special features. PrimeTime Live, hosted by Sam Donaldson and Diane Sawyer, completed its first full year on the weekly schedule with improved household and young demographic delivery. Additionally, Peter Jennings Reporting: The Killing Fields won both an Alfred I. duPont-Columbia University Award and a George Polk Award. ABC News President Boone Arledge and 20/20 host Barbara Walters were inducted into the Television Academy Hall of Fame in 1990, and David Brinkley won a George Foster Peabody Award for his career achievements.

ABC Sports performed well in an extremely competitive sports marketplace. ABC's NFL Monday Night Football, in the first year of a new four-year contract, averaged a 17.2 household rating during the regular season, a 4 percent decline from the 1989 season. The longest running series on the network schedule, Monday Night Football, was the number one rated prime-time program for young adult men in 1990. The New York Giants - San Francisco 49ers game in December was the most-watched Monday night game in the program's history. As part of the new NFL contract, ABC Sports broadcast its first two playoff games ever in January 1991 and capped the football season with coverage of Super Bowl XXV from Tampa, Florida. ABC's Wide World of Sports was 1990's highest-rated anthology series, and the division's balanced schedule of Big 10/Pac 10 college football, Triple Crown racing, college basketball and major golf championships provided perennial audience strength.

ABC programming won more than 200 awards in 1990, including 52 Emmys. In prime time ABC won 22, more than any other network. ABC News won three for PrimeTime Live, two for 20/20 and one for the Koppel Report.

There were several key executive changes at the network. Stephen A. Weiswasser, Senior Vice President and General Counsel of the Company, was named Executive Vice President of the ABC Television Network Group. Dennis D. Swanson, President of ABC Sports, assumed additional responsibilities for Monday-Friday Daytime and Children's Programming and Philip R. Beuth was named President of Early Morning and Latenight Entertainment, having been Senior Vice President in charge of Good Morning America since 1986.

As the network looks ahead, there is every indication that the soft revenue environment will persist through at least the first half of 1991. The 1991 war coverage has pre-empted regularly scheduled programming and displaced commercial time. Additionally, several advertisers chose not to run their commercials during war coverage. Budgets have been deferred to later in the year or cancelled. Furthermore, the industry's expensive new sports contracts renewals have taxed the marketplace even more by adding commercial inventory and putting downward pressure on pricing.

On the expense side, the network has taken advantage of the major cost-cutting opportunities that existed. It has also successfully controlled most internal expenses to inflation-rate levels or lower. The continuing coverage of events in the Persian Gulf has been, and will remain, expensive. The cost of licensed entertainment programming, which is produced by outside suppliers, remains one of the fastest-growing network cost components as well. This is especially true for the renewal of successful prime-time series that have been on the schedule for a number of years.

Attracting additional advertising revenue to cover the cost of several of these renewals will be difficult, even if the marketplace were healthier. Under current advertising conditions, network profitability could suffer further erosion.

The network has experienced similar revenue and cost pressures before. What is different this time is that the competitive environment has radically changed. That is why the network's top priority must be to produce more prime-time programming internally. Besides providing greater cost control and scheduling flexibility, program ownership would allow participation in television's ancillary markets. However, the network will need fundamental regulatory changes in this regard. The FCC is now considering whether the restrictions that govern the networks' relationships with their prime-time program suppliers should be retained or modified.

The Commission's decision, expected in March of 1991, will largely influence both the network's ability to fund its current mix of programming and its ability to compete effectively in today's new competitive environment.

Broadcast Group

The Broadcast Group achieved record revenues and earnings for the fifth successive year since the merger of Capital Cities and ABC. Net revenues increased by approximately 13 percent to $1,760,000,000 while operating income, at $631,000,000 (before amortization of intangibles), marginally exceeded 1989's performance.

Video Enterprises' ESPN unit accounted for the majority of the Group's revenue increase, which was driven to a significant extent by the telecast of the first year of its new Major League Baseball contract and a new National Football League contract. At the same time, the high cost of the rights for baseball and the lower than anticipated ratings performance for baseball telecasts curtailed the Group's profit growth.

Clearly, the combination of a weakened national economy and the caution created by the deepening Middle East crisis caused advertising demand to be under significant pressure in the fourth quarter. It also served to erode revenue gains achieved by the Group earlier in the year, as it did for many media companies.

Revenues and earnings at the television stations grew modestly in 1990 at rates similar to those experienced in 1989. The ABC Radio Networks fared somewhat better due in part to the full-year inclusion of Satellite Music Network, Inc., which was acquired in August 1989. However, the lack of revenue growth at our radio stations served to reduce our overall radio profits for the year. If the year started on a note of cautious optimism, it ended on a note of uncertainty.

Television Stations

Advertising revenues for the television stations, moderated by fourth quarter weakness, increased approximately 5 percent. Revenues in 1990 were favorably affected by increased spending for political advertising but were tempered by an imbalance in the supply/demand relationship at the network level in the fourth quarter, which saw traditional spot dollars diverted to lower cost network alternatives. Despite difficult market conditions, record performances were achieved at the New York, Los Angeles, Chicago and San Francisco stations.

The enviable competitive position that each of the Group's eight stations occupy in their respective markets enables them to outperform most industry standards. However, the increase in original programming by traditional and new competitors and the explosion of sports programming opportunities continue to erode our audience advantage and limit premium revenue opportunities.

Our eight television stations continue to be the largest such group under common ownership in the country, reaching 24.3 percent of the total ADI (Area of Dominant Influence) television homes, slightly under the 25 percent limitation established by the Federal Communications Commission. In the November 1990 "sweeps" period, each of the eight stations was either ranked or tied for first in their respective markets. The four annual national audience surveys, commonly referred to as "sweeps," have seen our stations achieve from a minimum of five first-ranked stations to a high of eight in each of the survey periods taken since the combination of the two companies.

The television stations have achieved success through their commitment to provide their communities with a meaningful and appealing combination of news and entertainment programming, with an emphasis on local news and information. The following table reflects how each station's principal news programs performed during the last survey period:

For the past five years the television stations have been organized into two groups of four stations. The East and West configuration reflected practical geographical considerations and enabled the Company to take advantage of the skills and experience of two seasoned television executives to guide the stations during this period. We believe that transition was managed very effectively. Now, with the retirement in 1991 of Kenneth M. Johnson, President of the Television Stations - West, the station group will be operated as a single unit under the direction of Lawrence J. Pollock, previously President, Television Stations - East.

Radio

The ABC Radio Networks again achieved record revenues and profits despite the fact that revenue growth tapered off as the Company closed out the year. The August 1989 acquisition of Satellite Music Network, Inc. contributed to the record performance. The networks continue preeminent in their industry by all significant criteria, while serving more than 3,050 affiliates nationwide. A number of new ad hoc program services has heightened network radio competition in recent years, and new combinations of once separately measured program entities have served to alter traditional measurement rankings.

During 1990, the ABC Radio Networks reconfigured its seven traditional programming networks into five new networks for sales and marketing purposes. While the realignment in no way affects the programming of the networks or any of its affiliate relationships, the reconfiguration differentiates the ABC Radio Networks from its competitors for advertisers and enhances market penetration. The ABC Radio Networks retain an enviable ratings position as seen in the following chart:

Network	Audience share	National rank
ABC Prime	16.7%	1
ABC Platinum	8.6%	3
ABC Genesis	8.3%	4
ABC Excel	4.3%	11 (T)
ABC Galaxy	3.1%	14

The networks continue to offer their affiliates and the communities they serve a broad spectrum of radio programming designed to inform and entertain. They feature the talents and resources of ABC News and the perceptive views of Paul Harvey, who continues as the most popular and respected radio commentator on the national scene.

Despite the outstanding year achieved by several of the division's 21 radio stations, the deteriorating advertising marketplace encountered in the fourth quarter served to further exacerbate problems at the weaker stations. As a result, the radio stations experienced virtually no revenue gain in 1990 and a small earnings decline.

The Company's 21 radio stations (eleven AM and ten FM) reach 25.6 percent of the United States as reflected in the following chart and continue as the largest and most profitable radio station group in the country.

While a soft marketplace often hides progress in programming acceptance, we continue to have ratings problems at the AM and FM stations in New York and Chicago. Clearly, a resolution to the problems in these key markets represents a significant upside opportunity for the Company. Our stations in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Fort Worth-Dallas and Minneapolis each had an excellent 1990, and our AM station in Washington, DC rebounded after a difficult year.

Video Enterprises

Video Enterprises generated significantly higher revenues in 1990, but operating profits declined sharply from 1989. Despite the decline, 1990 represented the second best year in the division's history, and Video Enterprises continues to hold great promise for the Company in the future.

More readily identified with its successful cable activities -- ESPN, Arts & Entertainment (A&E) and Lifetime -- Video Enterprises is also involved in program distribution and has an increasing presence in the foreign marketplace. The division is also involved in several entrepreneurial business investments.

ESPN continued as the premiere cable sports network in the country and expanded its reach to approximately 57,300,000 households as of the end of 1990. This level of penetration represents 61.5 percent of US television households, more than any other cable network. A&E and Lifetime, partially owned by the Company, also have continued to participate in cable's increased acceptance and growth and have enhanced their subscriber bases.

Unfortunately, many of ESPN's accomplishments during the year have been overshadowed by the network's rating and revenue experience with its first-year coverage of Major League Baseball. The audience for these telecasts fell short of original estimates and generated lower revenues than anticipated, resulting in a $35,000,000 operating loss in the first year of the contract. On a more positive note, ESPN's acquisition of the rights to telecast baseball, a game regarded by many as "the national pastime," was highly important to maintaining ESPN as the premiere cable sports franchise in the industry. Additionally, ESPN demonstrated that it could handle an extraordinarily complex operation with great skill and, despite the shortfall in ratings expectations, mount a series of sports presentations that achieved approximately 40 percent higher ratings than did alternate programming the year before. Moreover, while baseball caused earnings to decline from 1989 levels, ESPN's results from all other activities in 1990 significantly exceeded original expectations and those of the prior year.

ESPN successfully met the challenge of renewing several large cable affiliate contracts on terms which more equitably reflect the value of its program investments, such as baseball. ESPN also augmented the marketing effort required to re-sign cable affiliates at higher incremental fees for the new NFL contract (concluded with 99.9 percent of ESPN subscribers). These represent major accomplishments that have beneficial long-term implications.

April 1990 marked the launch of ESPN's joint venture in Japan with several major Japanese partners to provide a sports programming service to cable subscribers. While it is too early to predict meaningful success, an important step has been taken in a significant market. ESPN's 25 percent investment in The European Sports Network (TESN), a satellite-distributed sports service available throughout western Europe, also demonstrates our commitment to participate in the international marketplace. ESPN's participation in these ventures represents investments for the long-term and is not anticipated to be profitable in the near future.

Video Enterprises' other cable programming ventures continue to perform very well. A&E, the entertainment and cultural network, and Lifetime, which is targeted to women viewers, have continued to upgrade their programming and find increased viewer and advertiser acceptance. Both networks again experienced significantly increased revenue and profits. The Company owns 38 percent of A&E and 33 percent of Lifetime. Lifetime, which currently devotes its Sunday telecasts to medical and health-related programming, also has developed a new business called Healthlink, which provides a monthly video tape service to approximately 8,000 doctors' offices.

Video Enterprises' increased international presence has taken the form of several equity investments in existing companies whose principals have a proven track record in television program production and distribution in their respective countries. Early in the year, Video Enterprises acquired 25 percent investment positions in Hamster Productions, S.A. in Paris, France and Tesauro, S.A. in Madrid, Spain. These complement the 50 percent interest the Company previously acquired in Tele-Munchen GmbH in Germany. The Company believes that these investments and related co-production arrangements will enable it to participate in the expanding European marketplace. Through Tele-Munchen, the Company also maintains a significant minority interest in Tele-5, an independent German television network that, while holding real promise in the long run, currently incurs significant losses. The Company is allied with several major European media partners in this endeavor, and we believe that the combination of their support and the potential offered by a strong and growing German marketplace favors a successful outcome.

Publishing

Revenues of the Publishing Group exceeded $1,100,000,000 in 1990, with most of the 4 percent revenue increase resulting from 1990 acquisitions. Operating income improved slightly in 1990, with gains by the daily newspapers and shopping guides being partially offset by declines at certain of the specialized publications operations. Publishing's 1990 and 1989 results are summarized below:

(Dollars in millions)	1990	1989
Net revenues	$1,102.0	$ 1,057.4
Operating costs	934.0	891.5
Depreciation and amortization	35.6	35.5
Total costs	969.6	927.0
Operating income	$ 132.4	$ 130.4

The year was marked by a significant restructuring of the Company's specialized publishing operations, which resulted in a realignment of a number of publications and disposition or closing of others. Including the effect of the realignment and 1989 and 1990 acquisitions, the Diversified Publishing Group (formerly called ABC Publishing) enjoyed a record year in revenues and profits. The daily newspapers and shopping guides also achieved record results. Overall results in the fashion, financial services and medical sectors were down. The net effect of the numerous weekly newspapers acquired in late 1989 and early 1990 was mixed but taken together has been unfavorable to-date. Thirteen publishing acquisitions were completed in 1990 at a total purchase price of $54,542,000, and there were eight dispositions or shutdowns of specialized publications.

Specialized Publications

In 1986, the first year of the combined Company, specialized publications accounted for 50 percent of Publishing Group profits before amortization of intangible assets. By 1989, a 40 percent decline in specialized publishing profits reduced its share of the total to 35 percent and more than accounted for the three-year decline in Publishing Group profitability. As a result, and in view of major changes occurring in marketplaces served by the Company, senior publishing management initiated a review of its specialized publishing operations in late 1989.

Guidelines were developed to determine the conditions under which the Company would serve any given market niche, including dollar and profit margin minimums and market positions. To maximize market strength, individual publications serving similar markets would be grouped together. Those not meeting the criteria would be divested or discontinued.

As a result, a major restructuring of specialized publications was announced in March and implemented during the balance of the year. Highlights included:

- Fairchild Publications was downsized to its historical roots. Supermarket News, HFD and Fairchild Books were added to the Fashion Group which was formed in early 1989, and the resulting organization was renamed the Fairchild Fashion and Merchandising Group. Michael F. Coady was named President of the Group. Financial Services Week and Travel Agent were sold, and MIS Week was discontinued. Eighteen other Fairchild titles were transferred to other groups.
- The ABC Publishing Group was expanded to include a number of former Fairchild publications and was renamed the Diversified Publishing Group. Robert G. Burton, President of ABC Publishing, continues as President of the expanded group. American Metal Market, Multichannel News and the recently acquired International Thomson publications -- Cablevision, CED and Video Business -- were joined to form a new Diversified Publishing unit, the Communications and Commodities Group. Four Fairchild manufacturing publications were reassigned to Hitchcock Publishing. Fairchild's Metalworking News and Hitchcock's Machine and Tool Blue Book were closed. Electronic News and Energy User News were transferred to the Chilton publishing unit.
- Fairchild's International Medical News Group, comprised of six medical newspapers and Mercury Press, were reassigned to the newly formed Financial Services and Medical Group, which also includes Institutional Investor. Peter A. Derow was named President of the new group.
- Other dispositions included the remaining ABC Consumer publications. The Compute! group of magazines and books and McCall's Needlework & Crafts were sold in June. Musical America and Schwann magazines were sold in January 1991.

The restructuring generated nearly $4,000,000 of one-time costs during 1990. It has positioned the Company's specialized publishing operations to better cope with present market vagaries and take maximum advantage of future opportunities.

In 1990, total specialized publications revenue and expenses were up 2 percent from 1989, and operating income (excluding amortization of intangibles) increased 1 percent. Excluding the effect of 1989 and 1990 acquisitions and dispositions, profits declined 3 percent.

Excluding 1990 and 1989 acquisitions and dispositions, the Diversified Publishing Group had modest revenue and profit growth in 1990. Its largest component, the Chilton Company, had a small revenue increase and a modest profit decline. Despite circulation investments in many of its trade titles, magazine profits were up. During the year, Chilton acquired Stanley Publishing, adding to its successful line of automotive trade publications. The Chilton Research Services unit was selected by the four major networks to handle the Voter Research and Survey's data collection.

Word, Incorporated completed another strong year in 1990, with revenues and operating income at record levels. Word realized substantial cost reductions due to new duplicating abilities from the 1990 acquisition of International Cassette Corporation. Word continued to dominate the Best Seller list. Four of the top five best-selling inspirational books in 1990 were from Word, along with three out of the top five best-selling Gospel records.

NILS (National Insurance Law Service) ended 1990 with its tenth consecutive year of record revenues and operating income. NILS provides a national data base service of regulatory information for customers in the insurance and legal professions, in both print and electronic form.

Hitchcock Publishing experienced a slight decline in revenue while increasing operating profits. Personal Publishing had a turnaround year and is now profitable. PEMCO, Hitchcock's trade show operations was spun off into a stand-alone profit center during 1990. PEMCO had another record year, for both revenues and operating income. It now serves as the trade show unit for the Company.

Los Angeles magazine finished 1990, its 30th anniversary year, with a decline in revenues and operating income, which was typical of the economic slowdown experienced by many city and regional publications. However, Los Angeles magazine again finished the year as the number one city/regional magazine in total ad pages sold.

The Agricultural Publishing Group reported revenue and profit substantially above the prior year. This performance was fueled by the Farm Futures acquisition and the improved agricultural marketplace.

The newly named Fairchild Fashion and Merchandising Group operated in a severely depressed sector of the economy in 1990, particularly in the latter half. At continuing operations, revenues were up less than one percent, expenses were up 2 percent and profits declined 11 percent. Home Furnishings Daily and Supermarket News posted strong gains in revenues and operating income over 1989, while Women's Wear Daily and Children's Business showed slight increases. These were not enough to overcome shortfalls at Daily News Record, Footwear News and SportStyle. W's revenues were virtually flat, and earnings were down, indicative of the extremely difficult year for consumer fashion publications.

Certain assets of Manhattan Inc. were purchased in the third quarter of 1990, and elements were integrated with M to form a new publication known as M inc. This magazine debuted in September to both critical acclaim and favorable reader response. Many advertisers, however, have adopted a wait and see attitude before making a substantial commitment.

As the year ended, final preparations were made to launch W in Europe to be named W Fashion Life. The new publication is the first Pan-European fashion lifestyle publication. Published in four languages, it is initially being distributed in France, Italy, Germany and England.

Revenues and operating income for the Financial Services and Medical Group declined in 1990. Notwithstanding the continued contraction throughout the financial services industry, Institutional Investor's revenues increased by 4 percent. This was a result of impressive gains achieved in its newsletter and conference units, offset by lower advertising revenues from its magazines. Similarly, impressive gains in operating income from newsletters and conferences were more than offset by declines in magazine operating income. The newsletter unit successfully launched Global Money Management, its first new publication in nine years. The magazine received an Overseas Press Club award for its article "The Wild, Wired World of Electronic Exchanges."

Revenues and operating income at the International Medical News Group declined substantially as a consequence of the continuing low level of new product introductions by pharmaceutical companies and market share declines experienced by four of its six publications. During the course of the year, a number of important management changes were made throughout the group in an effort to improve future performance.

Newspapers and Shopping Guides

Total newspaper and shopping guides operating income increased 5 percent in 1990, compared with 1989. Daily newspapers posted a 4 percent overall profit gain on revenue and expense increases of 4 percent. Unfavorable results at some weekly operations, mainly those recently acquired, offset the dailies' gains.

The newspapers were helped once again by favorable newsprint prices. Despite a mid-year price increase, average prices for the full year were under average 1989 levels. Most of the dailies increased subscription prices during the year, and three newspapers raised daily single copy prices to 50 cents near year end.

On March 1, 1990, the Kansas City Star Company combined its morning and afternoon editions into a single morning paper, The Kansas City Star. The new Kansas City Star contains all news and feature elements of both editions. Acceptance among evening readers was enthusiastic, with virtually all former exclusive evening readers shifting to the morning Star. Circulation gains were recorded for all editions. The Star Company achieved record revenue and operating profit. Total advertising revenue increased 1 percent over 1989, and circulation revenue remained flat. The Star's news and editorial staffs received a number of awards for journalistic excellence, including first place for general excellence from the Missouri Press Association, first place for public affairs coverage from the Inland Press Association and awards from the Missouri National Education and Missouri Public Health associations.

Despite an uncertain local economic climate, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram posted a 4 percent gain in revenues and a 5 percent gain in profits. A single-copy price increase to 50 cents from 25 cents met less reader resistance than projected; a Sunday Bulldog edition brought an average sales increase of over 10,000 copies; advertising revenue for two supplements -- Tarrant Business and Star-Time (weekend guide) -- continued to improve; and what may be unique anywhere in the U.S., Class Acts, a tabloid for school kids, made a profit. A rack-sales only real estate guide begun in October also shows revenue potential. In response to a mid-year readership study, the paper redesigned its news and features fronts and laid the groundwork for publishing revamped zoned editions in 1991. The newsroom won the Scripps Howard Foundation's public service award for its reporting on the Jim Wright investigation and a National Headliner Award for coverage of the eighth Van Cliburn International Piano competition.

Benefiting in part from the merger of the nearby Detroit newspapers, The Oakland Press in Pontiac, Michigan, had excellent advertising and circulation revenue gains. Despite a downturn in the economy at year-end, it achieved record profits. The Press was cited as "Michigan's Best" daily newspaper in its circulation class by the Michigan Press Association. Integration of two companion weeklies acquired in 1990, the (Lapeer) County Press and Reminder, was nearly completed, with both to be printed in Pontiac.

The Belleville News-Democrat experienced its second straight year of declining profits. A slight revenue gain was exceeded by expense increases associated with expansion into neighboring areas begun in 1989. Circulation rose 6 percent daily and 4 percent Sunday. The News-Democrat won 32 awards for excellence, including 13 first-place awards--more than in any previous year. The Belleville weekly group acquired four additional weeklies in 1990, bringing the total to ten. The group produced slightly reduced profits in a soft market. Legal Communications Corporation exceeded last year's records with a 17 percent increase in operating income. An electronic information data base system, DataTrac, was launched, and projected growth over the next several years looks excellent.

At The Times Leader in Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, revenues were up 3 percent, and profits were down slightly. Paid circulation of the three-year-old Sunday edition increased over 9 percent, surpassing that of a competitor. The Sunday Dispatch, an 11,000 circulation weekly newspaper in Pittston, between Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, was acquired in March 1990.

In late 1989 and early 1990, the Company more than doubled the size of its publishing operations in New England through several acquisitions. The New England Newspaper Group now publishes 73 mastheads and distributes more than 750,000 copies weekly to households in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. In retrospect, the expansion was ill-timed, as the serious problems in the New England economy have adversely affected all media, including local print. The New England Newspaper Group operated at a loss in 1990, compared with positive results in prior years. Measures are underway to maximize results in a continuing soft economy, including improved sales efforts, consolidation of all Connecticut and Rhode Island printing into one facility and continued streamlining of expenses.

The Oregon newspaper group of two dailies, six weeklies and two philatelic publications enjoyed modest revenue and profit increases over 1989's record levels. The papers continue to rank well among their peers in statewide editorial contests.

Sutton Industries, Inc. headquartered in Laguna Niguel, California, had record operating income and profit margins in 1990. Sutton distributes almost 1,800,000 copies of its publications each week in northern and southern California. Profits at Sutton were up significantly on a 4 percent revenue gain. Continued improvements in automation were made in 1990, including the purchase of a press in northern California and additional inserting equipment in southern California.

The "Nickel" publications in Seattle-Tacoma and Spokane, Washington, and Portland, Oregon, experienced another record year. Overall profits were up substantially on a 12 percent revenue increase. Over 95 percent of the more than 500,000 copies of these tabloid advertising-only publications are picked up each week by consumers at supermarkets and convenience stores throughout the three markets.

At the Pennypower Shopping News, revenues were down slightly at its two operating locations of Wichita, Kansas, and Springfield, Missouri. Profits increased because of the absence of losses at the Topeka, Kansas, location, which was closed in late 1989.

Financial Overview

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Results of Operations and Financial Condition

Results of Operations — 1990 Compared to 1989

Consolidated net revenues for 1990 were $5,385,602,000, compared with $4,957,394,000 in 1989, a 9% increase. Broadcasting net revenues for 1990 were $4,283,633,000, compared with $3,899,989,000 in 1989, representing a 10% increase. Publishing Group net revenues increased 4%, from $1,057,405,000 in 1989 to $1,101,969,000 in 1990.

Net revenues in 1990 for the ABC Television Network increased 8%, compared with 1989. Strong television network revenue gains in the first eight months of 1990 were moderated by a weak scatter market for the balance of the year and by the absence of the telecast of the World Series in 1990. Television station and radio operations reported modest revenue gains in 1990. The video operations reported significant revenue increases, primarily due to ESPN's first year coverage of Major League Baseball and its new National Football League contract. Publishing revenues increased 4%, with most of the increase resulting from 1990 acquisitions. Excluding the effect of 1989 and 1990 acquisitions and dispositions, the Publishing Group's net revenues were 2% higher in 1990.

Total costs and expenses for 1990 were $4,462,387,000, compared with $4,034,882,000 in 1989, an 11% increase. Excluding purchase price adjustments, total costs and expenses for the Company increased 8% from 1989. Broadcasting costs in 1990 (excluding purchase price adjustments) increased 10% from 1989. Costs and expenses for the ABC Television Network increased moderately, primarily as a result of higher prime-time programming costs and ABC News production and news gathering expenses. Costs for the Company's video operations increased very significantly, primarily due to the cost of the program rights and production expenses for coverage by ESPN of Major League Baseball. Costs of the Company's television station and radio operations increased moderately, principally due to higher programming and news department expense and the inclusion of Satellite Music Network, Inc., which was acquired in August 1989. Costs and expenses in 1990 for the Company's publishing operations increased 5% from 1989. Excluding the effect of 1989 and 1990 acquisitions, dispositions and start-ups, publishing expenses increased only 2% from 1989. Publishing expenses were favorably impacted in 1990 by the reduced cost of newsprint and were unfavorably impacted by charges incurred in connection with the reorganization of the specialized publications operations.

Operating income for 1990 was $923,215,000, compared with $922,512,000 in 1989. Broadcasting earnings declined slightly in 1990. The ABC Television Network reported a slight decline in operating income after including the effect of purchase price adjustments in both years. Excluding the effect of purchase price adjustments in both years, the ABC Television Network reported a significant profit improvement in 1990 over 1989. Television station earnings increased moderately in 1990, while earnings for the video operations declined as a result of losses incurred at ESPN in its first year of coverage of Major League Baseball. Radio operations declined slightly in a difficult sales environment. Publishing earnings improved slightly in 1990, with gains by the daily newspapers being partially offset by declines at several of the specialized publications as well as a one-time $4,000,000 charge incurred in connection with the reorganization of the specialized publications operations.

Results for 1990 and 1989 reflect a reduction in entertainment programming and sports rights at the ABC Television Network from historic costs to fair market values recorded in connection with the acquisition of ABC of $8,500,000 and $92,000,000, respectively. These reduced costs (net of income taxes) benefited per share earnings by $0.30 and $3.10 in 1990 and 1989, respectively. The Company anticipates the effect of such reductions will be immaterial in 1991 and thereafter. Results for 1990 and 1989 also include a charge of $3.71 per share and $3.57 per share, respectively, for amortization of intangible assets.

Net financial expense (interest expense less interest income) for 1990 increased $2,314,000 from 1989. This slight net increase resulted mainly from reduced interest income due to lower interest rates on invested cash as well as interest foregone due to significant repurchases of the Company's common stock. Interest of $13,802,000 and $11,183,000 was capitalized in 1990 and 1989, respectively. The Company's effective tax rate was 43.0% in 1990 and 42.9% in 1989.

Earnings per share for 1990 were $27.71, a 2% gain over the $27.25 reported in 1989. Consolidated net income for 1990 amounted to $477,780,000, a decrease of 2% from the $485,727,000 earned in 1989. Average shares outstanding for 1990 were 17,240,000, compared with 17,825,000 in 1989, the decrease reflecting repurchases of common stock during 1989 and 1990.

The current economic climate continues to adversely affect advertising demand for both the broadcasting and publishing operations. In addition, the Persian Gulf conflict will have a significant negative impact on the Company's results in the first quarter of 1991. The conflict has substantially increased news-gathering costs and pre-emptions of television commercial time and has created further uncertainty in the advertising marketplace.

Results of Operations — 1989 Compared to 1988

Consolidated net revenues for 1989 were $4,957,394,000, compared with $4,773,453,000 in 1988, a 4% increase. Broadcasting net revenues for 1989 were $3,899,989,000, compared with $3,749,557,000 in 1988, representing a 4% increase. Publishing Group net revenues increased 3%, from $1,023,896,000 in 1988 to $1,057,405,000 in 1989.

Net revenues in 1989 for the ABC Television Network increased slightly as a result of strong advertising demand in the second half of the year which offset the impact of the incremental revenues from the 1988 telecasts of the Winter Olympics and the Super Bowl. The increased advertising demand in the second half of 1989 came mainly as a result of a stronger up-front market place for the ABC Television Network's 1989-1990 season. Revenues for ESPN increased significantly, while television station and radio revenues increased moderately. Publishing revenues increased 3%, with the newspaper operations accounting for most of the gain.

Total costs and expenses for 1989 were $4,034,882,000, compared with $3,957,424,000 in 1988, a 2% increase. Excluding purchase price adjustments, total costs and expenses for the Company were slightly lower than in 1988. Broadcasting costs in 1989 (excluding purchase price adjustments) decreased 2% from 1988. Costs and expenses for the ABC Television Network decreased, primarily as a result of the absence of production and rights costs associated with the 1988 telecast of the Winter Olympic Games offset by increased prime-time programming (partially a result of the 1988 Writers Guild strike) and news-gathering expenses. Costs for the Company's other broadcasting operations increased moderately, principally due to higher programming, selling and administrative expenses. Costs and expenses in 1989 for the Company's publishing operations increased 4% from 1988. This increase was primarily due to higher selling and administrative expenses and a charge associated with the planned merger of the morning and afternoon newspapers in Kansas City into a single morning newspaper. Publishing expenses were favorably impacted in 1989 by the reduced cost of newsprint and by the mid-year disposition of two consumer magazines.

Operating income for 1989 was $922,512,000, compared with $816,029,000 in 1988, a 13% increase. Broadcasting operations reported a 16% increase. The ABC Television Network reported significantly improved earnings (excluding purchase price adjustments) in 1989, compared with a slight loss in 1988. Operating earnings for ESPN were substantially ahead of 1988, while the television stations and radio operations reported moderate increases. Publishing earnings improved slightly in 1989, with gains for the newspapers being offset by declines for several of the specialized publications.

Results for 1989 and 1988 reflect a reduction in entertainment programming and sports rights at the ABC Television Network from historic costs to fair market values recorded in connection with the acquisition of ABC of $92,000,000 and $191,000,000, respectively. These reduced costs (net of income taxes) benefited per share earnings by $3.10 and $6.60 in 1989 and 1988, respectively. The Company anticipates the effect of such reductions will be approximately $8,500,000 in 1990 ($0.30 per share, net of income taxes) and immaterial amounts in 1991 and thereafter. Results for 1989 and 1988 also include a charge of $3.57 per share and $3.70 per share, respectively, for amortization of all intangible assets.

Net financial expense (interest expense less interest income) for 1989 decreased $57,100,000 from 1988. This net decline resulted primarily from increased interest income of $49,155,000 due to significantly higher levels of cash investments resulting from the 1988 exercise of warrants (issued in connection with the acquisition of ABC in 1986) and accumulated cash flow from operations. Interest of $11,183,000 and $10,304,000 was capitalized in 1989 and 1988, respectively. The Company's effective tax rate was 42.9% in 1989 and 43.7% in 1988.

Consolidated net income for 1989 amounted to $485,727,000, an increase of 25% from the $387,076,000 earned in 1988. Earnings per share for 1989 were $27.25, a 22% gain over the $22.31 reported in 1988. Average shares outstanding for 1989 were 17,825,000, compared with 17,350,000 in 1988, the increase primarily reflecting the 1988 exercise of warrants partially offset by repurchases of the Company's common stock in 1989.

Available Cash Flow

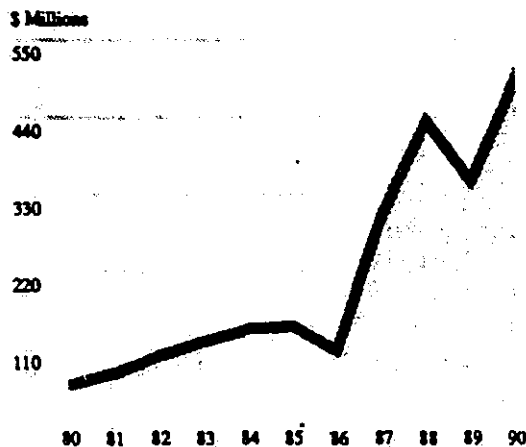

Available cash flow is defined by the Company as cash from operations before changes in operating assets and liabilities, less amounts reinvested in such operations for capital expenditures and program licenses and rights. The Company believes this discussion of cash flow constitutes the most meaningful way to present this information as it serves to highlight management's discretionary cash initiatives. Available cash flow is often referred to as "free cash flow" and is considered by the Company and others to be one of the most meaningful measures of performance of advertiser-supported media companies.

In 1990, the Company's available cash flow was $508,363,000, compared with $353,255,000 in 1989, an increase of $155,108,000, or 44%. The increase was primarily a result of slightly lower cash flow from operations offset by substantially decreased investment in program licenses and rights and substantially decreased capital spending in 1990. The Company's investment in program licenses and rights and capital spending returned to more normal levels in 1990. In the prior year, the programming investment increased significantly primarily as a result of the disruption in the delivery of prime-time programming due to a strike by the Writers Guild of America. Capital spending in 1989 was impacted by the purchase of approximately $70,000,000 of second generation satellite transponders at the ABC Television Network and ESPN, which are scheduled to be operational in 1993 and 1994.

The Company's available cash flows have historically been almost equal to or higher than reported net income. The continued generation of such available cash flow has allowed the Company to make selective acquisitions, invest in new business start-ups, reduce debt and, when deemed appropriate, repurchase its common stock. The continued judicious employment of available cash flow should enhance the Company's future growth in earnings and stockholders' equity, and enable it, when appropriate, to reduce outstanding debt.

Available Cash Flow

The available cash flow for 1990 of $508,363,000 was increased by $250,500,000 from the issuance of long-term debt and $48,398,000 from the proceeds from common stock issued under Employee Stock Plans. This resulted in total cash provided of $807,261,000. Common stock purchased for treasury required $446,724,000, acquisitions of operating properties required $61,983,000, the increase in working capital items (excluding programming) required $47,786,000, other miscellaneous investing and financing activities required $27,915,000 and the increase in short-term investments required $797,401,000. These items, along with dividends of $3,417,000, resulted in total cash applied of $1,385,226,000. The Company's policy is very conservative with respect to investment of its cash. At December 31, 1990, all its cash was invested in highly-liquid United States Government investments with a weighted average life to maturity of 123 days. The Financial Accounting Standards Board defines a cash equivalent as one whose maturity at the date of purchase is three months or less. At December 31, 1990, $797,401,000 of the Company's investments did not meet the definition of a cash equivalent and are therefore classified in the consolidated financial statements as short-term investments. The excess of cash applied over cash provided resulted in a decrease of $577,965,000 in cash and cash investments from December 31, 1989.

Capital Expenditures and Program Commitments

In 1990, capital expenditures amounted to $120,812,000, a decrease of $72,730,000 from the $193,542,000 spent in 1989. Capital spending in the prior year included approximately $70,000,000 for the purchase of second generation satellite transponders at the ABC Television Network and ESPN.

The largest portion of 1990 spending was in the Company's broadcasting operations, where $105,500,000 was spent. Broadcasting capital expenditures included $25,500,000 for facilities improvements, $6,900,000 for transponders at ESPN, and $73,100,000 for broadcast equipment to support current operations. In 1990, the Publishing Group spent $14,500,000 for ongoing operations, including $2,300,000 for facilities upgrades.

The Company anticipates that 1991 capital expenditures will approximate $140,000,000. This amount includes $40,000,000 for facilities improvements and an additional $7,000,000 for transponders at ESPN. Facility upgrades in 1991 will include a rebuild of the radio station operations in Los Angeles. Expenditures for broadcast and publishing equipment to support ongoing operations are expected to be $93,000,000, which approximates annual depreciation expense.

As the operator of the ABC Television Network, ESPN and eight television stations, the Company will continue to enter into programming commitments to purchase the broadcast rights for various feature films, sports and other programming. Total commitments to purchase broadcast programming were approximately $3,238,000,000 at the end of 1990. This amount is substantially payable over the next five years.

The Company plans to fund its operations and commitments from internally generated funds and, if needed, from various external sources of funds which are available.

Capital Expenditures

Capital Structure

The Company's capital structure is made up of four components: stockholders' equity, interest-bearing debt, minority interest and deferred income taxes.

Stockholders' equity amounted to $3,367,897,000 at December 31, 1990, an increase of $76,037,000 from the 1989 year-end total of $3,291,860,000. The increase was primarily attributable to the addition of $477,780,000 of net income and $48,398,000 from common stock issued under Employee Stock Plans, offset by $446,724,000 of purchases of common stock to be held as treasury shares.

At December 31, 1990, total interest-bearing debt was $1,947,390,000, a net increase of $252,319,000 from 1989. Of this increase, $250,000,000 was attributable to the issuance of 8 7/8% notes, due December 15, 2000. These notes were issued under a $500,000,000 shelf registration which was filed during 1990. The net proceeds from the sale of these unsecured notes will be used for general corporate purposes, which may include the repayment of long-term and short-term indebtedness of the Company.

As more fully described in Note 6 to the Consolidated Financial Statements, total interest-bearing debt at December 31, 1990 includes $100,000,000 of commercial paper supported by a $1,000,000,000 bank revolving credit agreement, $1,825,000,000 of public and privately placed notes and debentures and $22,390,000 of other long-term debt. At December 31, 1990, the weighted average interest rates of the commercial paper and of all other long-term instruments was 8.4% and 10.1%, respectively. The Company plans to fund the repayment of its debt from internally generated funds and, if needed, from various external sources of funds which are available.

The Company's debt to total capital ratio at the end of each of the last five years was as follows:

(Dollars in millions)	Debt	Total capital	Ratio
1990	$1,947.4	$5,542.5	35%
1989	$1,695.1	$5,221.9	32%
1988	$1,693.5	$4,948.5	34%
1987	$1,696.9	$4,128.9	41%
1986	$1,821.8	$3,964.7	46%

Return on Equity

Return on equity is an important measurement of the effectiveness with which the stockholders' equity is being employed. It is expressed as the percentage relationship that net income (before extraordinary items) bears to average stockholders' equity. The Company's return on average stockholders' equity was 14.3% in 1990 and 15.4% in 1989. The decreased return in 1990 was primarily attributable to the 2% decline in net income.

The Company's return on equity has benefited both from its historical ability to finance its growth from internally generated capital and debt rather than new equity capital and from its program of repurchasing its common stock. In 1986, the return on equity decreased substantially as a result of transactions related to the acquisition of

ABC. The significant resulting decline in return on equity was reversed beginning in 1987 as the Company's historical operating patterns returned.

Since 1988, the Board of Directors of the Company has authorized the repurchase of up to 2,000,000 shares of the Company's common stock. The repurchases are made from time to time in the open market at prices then prevailing. As of February 28, 1991, the Company has repurchased 1,504,000 shares of its common stock under this authorization for a total cost of $697,000,000, at an average cost of $463 per share.

Intangible Assets

At December 31, 1990, the Company's intangible assets, before accumulated amortization, totaled $2,532,222,000, which accounted for approximately 38% of the Company's total assets.

Intangible assets represent the excess of the purchase price over the underlying fair market value of tangible assets acquired. In accordance with Accounting Principles Board Opinion No. 17, the Company amortizes substantially all intangible assets over 40 years. This practice is arbitrarily mandated by Opinion No. 17 without regard to whether these assets have or have not declined in value.

All of the Company's intangible assets have resulted from the acquisition of broadcasting and publishing properties. Historically, such intangible assets have substantially increased in value and have long and productive lives. We believe that the Company's intangible assets have appreciated in value, and that the requirements of Opinion No. 17 when applied to such publishing and broadcasting assets understate net income and stockholders' equity. The amortization of intangible assets had the effect of reducing 1990 net income by $63,985,000, or $3.71 a share. The amortization of substantially all intangible assets is not a deductible item in computing income taxes.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

1. Accounting Policies

Principles of Consolidation — The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of all significant subsidiaries. Investments in other companies which are at least 20% owned are reported on the equity method. All significant intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated.

Property, Plant and Equipment — Depreciation — Depreciation is computed on the straight-line method for financial accounting purposes and on accelerated methods for tax purposes. Estimated useful lives for major asset categories are 10-55 years for buildings and improvements, 4-20 years for broadcasting equipment and 5-20 years for publishing machinery and equipment. Leasehold improvements are amortized over the terms of the leases.

Intangible Assets — Intangible assets consist of amounts by which the cost of acquisitions exceeded the values assigned to net tangible assets. The broadcasting and publishing intangible assets, all of which may be characterized as scarce assets with very long and productive lives, have historically increased in value with the passage of time. In accordance with Accounting Principles Board Opinion No. 17, substantially all of these intangible assets are being amortized over periods of up to 40 years, even though in the opinion of management there has been no diminution of value of the underlying assets.

Program Licenses and Rights — Program licenses and rights and the related liabilities are recorded when the license period begins and the program is available for use. Television network and station rights for theatrical movies and other long-form programming are charged to expense primarily on accelerated bases related to the usage of the program. Television network series costs and multi-year sports rights are charged to expense based on the flow of anticipated revenue.

Unearned Subscription Revenue — Subscription revenue is recorded as earned over the life of the subscriptions. Costs in connection with the procurement of subscriptions are generally charged to expense as incurred.

Postretirement Benefits Other Than Pensions — In December 1990, Financial Accounting Standards Board Statement No. 106 was issued which requires a change in the method of accounting for postretirement benefits other than pensions. The Company is evaluating the impact of this standard which must be implemented by 1993. The impact of such adoption on the consolidated financial statements is expected not to be material.

Short-term Investments — Short-term investments consists of highly liquid U.S. Government instruments with original maturities in excess of three months, and are carried at cost, which approximates market. Short-term investments which have a maturity of three months or less at the time of purchase are considered cash equivalents.

Reporting Year — The Company's reporting year is a year ending on December 31. Prior to 1989, the Company's reporting year was a fiscal year ending the Sunday closest to December 31.

2. Acquisitions

During 1990, the Company completed a number of small acquisitions for a combined cash purchase price of $61,983,000. During 1989, the Company acquired Satellite Music Network, Inc., a 50% interest in Tele-Munchen GmbH, and several publishing operations. The combined cash purchase price for these acquisitions was $81,465,000. In 1988, the Company completed several acquisitions for a combined cash purchase price of $18,143,000.

3. Income Per Share

The calculation of average common shares and common share equivalents outstanding during the year is as follows (000's omitted):

Common shares	17,185	17,753	16,965
Stock options	55	72	75
Warrants	—	—	310
Total	17,240	17,825	17,350

4. Shareholder Rights Plan

In 1989, the Company adopted a Shareholder Rights Plan. The Plan becomes operative in certain events involving the acquisition of 20% or more of the Company's common stock by any person or group in transactions not approved by the Company's Board of Directors. In the case of Berkshire Hathaway Inc., pursuant to an existing agreement, the threshold for activation of the Rights Plan is the acquisition of more than 30% of the Company's common stock.

Upon the occurrence of such an event, each Right, unless redeemed by the Board, entitles its holder to purchase at the Right's exercise price of $2,000, a number of common shares of the Company, or in certain circumstances the acquiring company's common shares, having a market value of twice that price. The Rights expire in 1999.

5. Commitments

At December 31, 1990, the Company is committed to the purchase of broadcast rights for various feature films, sports and other programming aggregating approximately $3,238,000,000.

The aggregate payments related to these commitments during the next five years are summarized as follows:

	$1,947,390	$1,695,071

The aggregate payments of long-term debt outstanding at December 31, 1990 for the next five years, excluding commercial paper, are summarized as follows: 1991 - $96,602,000; 1992 - $97,507,000; 1993 - $97,015,000; 1994 - $105,446,000; 1995 - $9,948,000.

A subsidiary of the Company has issued commercial paper, $100,000,000 of which was outstanding at December 31, 1990, at a weighted average interest rate of 8.4%. The commercial paper is supported by a $1,000,000,000 bank revolving credit agreement terminating on June 30, 1992, unless otherwise extended. The agreement requires a facility fee on the average daily commitment of .09%. Under terms of the bank revolving credit agreement, the Company and its consolidated subsidiaries are required to maintain a consolidated net worth of $1,840,162,000 at December 31, 1990, increasing annually by 33 percent of the consolidated net income of the previous year. The commercial paper outstanding at December 31, 1990 is classified as long-term, since the Company intends to renew or replace with long-term borrowings all, or substantially all, of the commercial paper. However, the amount of commercial paper outstanding in 1991 is expected to fluctuate and may be reduced from time to time.

The 8¼% debentures, 11¼% debentures and 11¼% debentures are redeemable at the option of the Company, in whole or in part, at a declining premium to par until 2006, 2005 and 2003, respectively, and at par thereafter; provided, however, that these debentures not be redeemed from, or in anticipation of, funds borrowed at certain specified lower interest rates for a period of ten years from their dates of issuance. The 10¼% notes and 8¼% notes are redeemable at par starting in 1992 and 1993, respectively. The 10.8% Senior Notes are not redeemable prior to 1992, at which time they may be redeemed at a price of 104% of par until maturity.

During 1990, the Company filed a shelf registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission for the issuance of up to $500,000,000 of unsecured debt securities. In late 1990, the Company issued $250,000,000 of 8¼% notes due December 15, 2000. These notes are not redeemable prior to that date.

The Company has unconditionally guaranteed the 10.8% Senior Notes, the 8¼% notes, the 8¼% debentures which have been issued by a wholly-owned subsidiary, the commercial paper, and any borrowings which may be made by a subsidiary under the bank revolving credit agreement.

7. Employee Benefit Plans

The Company has defined benefit pension plans or qualified profit sharing plans covering substantially all of its employees not covered by union plans. The profit sharing plans provide for contributions by the Company in such amount as the Board of Directors may annually determine. Contributions to the profit sharing plans of $6,700,000, $6,786,000 and $6,616,000 were charged to expense in 1990, 1989 and 1988, respectively.

With respect to the defined benefit pension plans, the Company's policy is to fund amounts as are necessary on an actuarial basis to provide for benefits in accordance with the requirements of ERISA. Benefits are generally based on years of service and compensation. The weighted average discount rate used in determining the actuarial present value of the projected benefit obligation was 9% at year-end 1990 and 1989. The rate of increase in future compensation levels and the expected long-term rate of return on assets were 5% and 8%, respectively, in 1990 and 1989.

The components of net pension cost for 1990, 1989 and 1988 are as follows (000's omitted):

50% of the employee's contribution, up to 5% of salary. In 1990, 1989 and 1988, the cost of this plan (net of forfeitures) was $10,038,000, $7,437,000 and $6,942,000, respectively.

8. Segment Data

The Company's business operations are classified into two segments: Broadcasting and Publishing. Broadcasting operations include the ABC Television Network and eight television stations, the ABC Radio Networks and 21 radio stations, and cable television programming services. The Publishing segment includes newspapers, shopping guides, various specialized business and consumer periodicals and books, research services and database publishing. There are no material product transfers between segments of the Company, and virtually all of the Company's business is conducted within the United States. In December 1987, Financial Accounting Standards Board Statement No. 96 was issued which requires a change in the method of accounting for income taxes. This statement must be implemented by 1992. The Company does not expect to adopt the standard prior to 1992, and the impact on the financial statements of such adoption is estimated not to be material.

The provision (benefit) for deferred income taxes represents the tax effect of transactions reported in different periods for financial and income tax reporting purposes, and results from the following timing differences (000's omitted):

	1990	1989	1988
Accelerated

Total	$(13,200)	$(27,100)	$ 2,600

Deferred income taxes at December 31, 1990 include approximately $130,000,000 of taxes relating to the disposition of broadcasting and cable properties by the Company and its subsidiaries in 1986, deferred under the provisions of Section 1071 of the Internal Revenue Code.

able to be purchased through the period ending April 1995.

CAPITAL CITIES/ABC, INC. SAVINGS & INVESTMENT PLAN

Notes to Combined Financial Statements

December 31, 1990, 1989 and 1988

(1) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

(a) The accompanying combined financial statements present plan equity and changes therein of the Capital Cities/ABC, Inc. Savings & Investment Plan (the Plan) on an accrual basis. The Plan consists of three funds:

- Fund A - Capital Cities/ABC, Inc.
Common Stock Fund
- Fund B - Diversified Equity Fund
- Fund C - Guaranteed Income Fund

(b) The investment in common stock of Capital Cities/ABC, Inc. (Capital Cities/ABC) is stated at market value which is based on the year-end stock quotation from the New York Stock Exchange.

Investments of the Diversified Equity Fund consist of equity securities and convertible debentures of companies other than Capital Cities/ABC. The market value of the equity investments is also based on year-end stock quotations from the New York Stock Exchange.

Investments of the Guaranteed Income Fund consist of funds on deposit with an insurance company under contract which provides for a guaranteed minimum annual rate of interest of 9.5% for 1990. The Guaranteed Income Fund is valued at cost plus interest earned.

Uninvested cash may be temporarily invested in obligations of the U.S. Government or other short-term investments.

Realized gains and losses on sales of securities are accounted for on a weighted average cost basis. Purchases and sales are recorded on a trade date basis. Dividend income is accrued on the ex-dividend date. Interest income is recorded on an accrual basis as earned.

Unrealized appreciation at the beginning and end of each year and the net (decrease) increase for each year included in the accompanying statements of income and changes in plan equity are as follows:

CAPITAL CITIES/ABC, INC. SAVINGS & INVESTMENT PLAN

Notes to Combined Financial Statements

(1) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies (Continued)

- (c) Distributions to terminated and withdrawing participants are based upon the market value of units and/or shares credited to participants' accounts as of the effective date of termination or withdrawal. The difference between the market value on the effective date of distribution and the cost of shares distributed is shown separately in the accompanying combined statements of income and changes in plan equity.
- (d) Employer contributions are reported net of forfeitures of $115,920, $145,955 and $309,730 for 1990, 1989 and 1988, respectively.

(2) Description of Plan

The Plan is an employee savings and investment plan for participating employees of American Broadcasting Companies, Inc. (ABC) (an indirect wholly owned subsidiary of Capital Cities/ABC) and those other subsidiaries and divisions of Capital Cities/ABC which were previously a part of, or affiliates of ABC. Individuals who became employees of the corporate and other broadcasting properties of Capital Cities/ABC subsequent to 1988 are eligible to participate in the Plan. In addition, employees of Satellite Music Network, Inc. (an indirect wholly owned subsidiary of Capital Cities/ABC) and approximately 5,000 employees of certain subsidiaries of Capital Cities/ABC's Publishing Group were eligible to participate in the Plan effective January 1 and April 1 of 1990, respectively. Satellite Music Network, Inc. had previously maintained its own plan. Effective April 1, 1990 this plan was merged with the Capital Cities/ABC, Inc. Savings & Investment Plan and as a result, a cash transfer of $4,587,947 was made to the Plan.

Under the Plan, eligible employees may authorize payroll deductions of either 2, 3, 4 or 5% of their annual compensation to be invested in one or more of three funds. Such contributions may be in the form of regular after-tax contributions (taxable), or tax deferred contributions. Capital Cities/ABC will contribute an amount equal to 50% of such deductions, to be invested in the Capital Cities/ABC, Inc. Common Stock Fund (Fund A). On October 1, 1987, the Plan was amended to allow employees to contribute an additional unmatched 2, 3, 4 or 5% of annual compensation, which may be designated either taxable or tax deferred contributions for any year. Total annual contributions by the employer and employee to a participant's account are limited to $30,000 for all defined contribution plans. The IRS-imposed limitation on tax deferred contributions for 1990 is $7,979 for employees. Participants are fully vested with respect to their own contributions at all times. For periods covered in these financial statements, participants with less than 5 years of service vest with respect to employer contributions over a three-year period, one-third each year. Upon completion of 5 years of service, death, permanent disability, retirement or termination of service after age 65, a participant's account is considered fully vested.

The Plan permits the Employee Benefits Committee to postpone distributions of a member's account in instances where a member's termination of services arises out of a change in ownership of stock or all or part of the assets of a member's employing unit and such member is reemployed by the acquiring entity if such termination is not deemed a "separation from service" within the meaning of the applicable income tax rulings or regulations. In such instances the Employee Benefits Committee may postpone the distribution until such distribution may be accomplished without adverse income tax consequences to the member or to the Plan or may allow a transfer to another qualified plan or allow a permissible tax-free rollover.

Under the Plan, members are allowed to obtain loans equal to the lesser of the amount of such member's account attributable to taxable and tax deferred contributions or the maximum amount allowable under federal tax regulations with $1,000 being the minimum. The loans bear interest at a rate determined by the Employee Benefits Committee.

The value of a participant's account is determined based upon share value for Fund A and unit values for Funds B and C. Upon permanent disability or retirement, the amount credited to a participant's account is distributed to him or his beneficiary, either in a lump sum or in installments over a period not exceeding ten years. Upon termination of employment for reasons other than permanent disability or retirement, the amount credited to the participant's account is distributed to him in a lump sum. While employed, a participant may, in 10% increments or a lump sum, withdraw from the Plan the amount credited to his account which is attributable to his taxable contributions. Upon a withdrawn participant's termination, the vested amount credited to his account attributable to employer contributions is distributed to him. If a participant terminates prior to vesting with respect to employer contributions, forfeited funds are used to reduce the contribution of the sponsor company. Distributions of Fund A are paid either in shares of Capital Cities/ABC common stock or cash. Distributions for Funds B and C are paid in cash.

As of December 31, 1990 there were 8,823 participants in Fund A, 3,170 participants in Fund B and 5,643 participants in Fund C.

As of December 31, 1990 there were 4,671,820 total units in Fund B and 22,106,949 total units in Fund C with unit values of 4.56 and 3.22 respectively.

(4) Administration of the Plan

Under the terms of a trust agreement between Bankers Trust Company (the Trustee) and the Plan, the Trustee manages the Plan assets on behalf of the Plan. For the periods ending December 31, 1990, 1989 and 1988, substantially all the Plan assets were held by the Trustee.

During the period 1988 through 1990, the cost of administering the Plan was paid directly by Capital Cities/ABC, Inc.; the Plan assets were not used to meet such obligations.

(5) Termination of the Plan

Although Capital Cities/ABC has not expressed any intent to terminate the Plan, it may be terminated at any time by action of its Board of Directors. In the event of termination, the amounts credited to the participants' accounts become fully vested and the Trustee is required to distribute such amounts to participants or continue the trust fund and pay benefits therefrom in accordance with the provisions of the Plan.

(6) Federal Income Taxes

Capital Cities/ABC, Inc. has received a letter of determination from the IRS stating that the Plan as amended through December 22, 1987 meets the requirements of Section 401(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended, and that the trust established thereunder is entitled to exemption from payment of Federal income taxes under provisions of Section 501(a) of the Code.

Participants are not subject to federal income tax on employer contributions made to their accounts under the Plan, or on the earnings in their accounts, until amounts in their accounts are withdrawn or distributed.

EXHIBIT (28)(b)

The Registrant hereby undertakes as follows, which undertakings shall be and hereby are incorporated by reference into Form S-8 Registration Statements No. 2-58945, No. 2-59014, No. 2-86863, No. 33-2196, No. 33-11806, No. 33-16206, No. 33-25918 and No. 33-33761

UNDERTAKINGS

The undersigned Registrant hereby undertakes:

(1) To file, during any period in which offers or sales are being made, a post-effective amendment to this registration statement: (i) to include any prospectus required by Section 10(a)(3) of the Securities Act of 1933; (ii) to reflect in the prospectus any facts or events arising after the effective date of the registration statement (or the most recent post-effective amendment thereof) which, individually or in the aggregate, represent a fundamental change in the information set forth in the registration statement; (iii) to include any material information with respect to the plan of distribution not previously disclosed in the registration statement or any material change to such information in the registration statement.

(2) That, for the purpose of determining any liability under the Securities Act of 1933, each such post-effective amendment shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.

(3) To remove from registration by means of a post-effective amendment any of the securities being registered which remain unsold at the termination of the offering.

The undersigned Registrant hereby undertakes that, for purposes of determining any liability under the Securities Act of 1933, each filing of the Registrant's annual report pursuant to Section 13(a) or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (and, where applicable, each filing of an employee benefit plan's annual report pursuant to Section 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934) that is incorporated by reference in the registration statement shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.

The undersigned Registrant hereby undertakes to deliver or cause to be delivered with the prospectus, to each person to whom the prospectus is sent or given, the latest annual report to security holders that is incorporated by reference in the prospectus and furnished pursuant to and meeting the requirements of Rule 14a-3 or Rule 14c-3 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934; and, where interim financial information required to be presented by Article 3 of Regulation S-X are not set forth in the prospectus, to deliver, or cause to be delivered, to each person to whom the prospectus is sent or given, the latest quarterly report that is specifically incorporated by reference in the prospectus to provide such interim financial information.

Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act of 1933 may be permitted to directors, officers and controlling persons of the Registrant pursuant to the foregoing provisions, otherwise, the Registrant has been advised that in the opinion of the Securities and Exchange Commission such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Act and is, therefore, unenforceable. In the event that a claim for indemnification against such liabilities (other than the payment by the Registrant of expenses incurred or paid by a director, officer or controlling person of the Registrant in the successful defense of any action, suit or proceeding) is asserted by such director, officer or controlling person in connection with the securities being registered, the Registrant will, unless in the opinion of its counsel the matter has been settled by controlling precedent, submit to a court of appropriate jurisdiction the question whether such indemnification by it is against public policy as expressed in the Act and will be governed by the final adjudication of such issue.
